The screenshot shows a web browser window displaying the GitHub profile of a user named JKendrat. The browser's address bar shows the URL `https://learn.marist.edu/access/content/group/...`. The GitHub page header includes a search bar, navigation links for Pull requests, Issues, and Gist, and a user menu for JKendrat. The profile section on the left features a placeholder profile picture, the username JKendrat, a link to 'Add a bio', and an 'Edit profile' button. A blue banner at the top of the profile area encourages updating the profile. The main content area shows the 'Overview' tab selected, with statistics for 2 repositories, 0 stars, 0 followers, and 0 following. Below this, a 'Popular repositories' section lists 'Firstproject'. The '3 contributions in the last year' section displays a contribution graph with a legend indicating the number of contributions per day (Less, 1, 2, 3, More). A text box explains the contribution graph and provides a link to a quick guide.

This is your contribution graph. Your first 1 is for joining GitHub and you'll earn more as you make additional contributions. More contributions means a darker green square for that day. Over time, your chart might start looking something like this.

We have a quick guide that will show you how to create your first repository and earn more green squares!
